FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

GLOVIA INTERNATIONAL becomes FUJITSU GLOVIA, INC.

*Name Change for Manufacturing ERP Software Company Reflects

EL SEGUNDO, Calif. (April 1, 2015) – GLOVIA INTERNATIONAL, INC., has been renamed FUJITSU GLOVIA, INC., as part of a re-branding that reaffirms its Japanese parent’s commitment to the continued development of best-in-class manufacturing ERP software.

The company recently unveiled the newest version of its signature enterprise resource planning system GLOVIA G2 V3 and has begun an aggressive year-long campaign to introduce the product to the manufacturing marketplace.

“By becoming FUJITSU GLOVIA, INC., our company can more clearly communicate the long and productive relationship we’ve had with our corporate parent, Fujitsu Limited, and its continued commitment to technological achievement in information and communication technologies,” said Chikara Ono, President and CEO of FUJITSU GLOVIA.

Fujitsu Limited, founded in 1935, is a leading information and communication technology company, with approximately 162,000 employees supporting customers in over 100 countries. The Fujitsu Group holds approximately 100 thousand patents worldwide.

Since becoming a reseller of Glovia manufacturing ERP software more than a decade ago, Fujitsu Limited steadily increased its involvement with the El Segundo, Calif., company. Fujitsu acquired Glovia in 2000, making it a wholly owned subsidiary. Not only does Fujitsu Limited provide Glovia's extended ERP solutions to manufacturers — as a global manufacturer of information and communication technology products itself, the company is also an end user. Glovia ERP software is now implemented in more than 50 Fujitsu subsidiaries worldwide.

Ono added: “When our customers choose Glovia, they get much more than an industry-leading ERP solution. They also get the resources, expertise and support of one of the world's largest and most successful technology companies: Fujitsu.”

Designed for small-, medium- and large-sized manufacturers, including Tier 1, 2 and 3 suppliers to the automotive, aerospace and defense, and electronics industries, as well as mixed-mode manufacturers,

the new GLOVIA G2 V3 release enhances GLOVIA G2's innovative, highly visual user interface with intuitive, uncluttered screens that walk the end user through each step of the work process, making it easy to use, even for non-ERP experts. The resulting manufacturing ERP software is highly adaptable, offering universal use on any device, operating system or browser with full database support on SQL Server 2014 and Oracle Database 12c.

GLOVIA G2 provides full support for manufacturers using a variety of lean manufacturing philosophies, including MRP, Kanban, Seiban and JIT, and supports lean business principles not only for manufacturing, but also for other functions of the business, including accounting, invoicing, sales and inventory management.
